I have stayed in Japan for two years. Before I came to Japan, I stayed in China and taught English at a high school there. When I came to China and Japan, I couldn't speak the languages. But I didn't worry. I believe language is not a problem. Doing something with other people is more important. In Japan, I try volunteer work. I clean the streets on holidays and teach English to people in the town after my work. I also help people at festivals. I have many friends. They teach me a lot of new things. So, I'm happy and enjoying my life here. Now I have a question for you. What makes you happy in your life?
