- Sota : I use the internet every day. How about you, Jim?
- Jim : Me, too. I use it when I study Japanese alone. It helps me understand difficult words. I also use it to check the plans of my baseball club on my smartphone.
- Sota : I usually use it to watch music videos and read blogs of my favorite American musician. It's good to improve my English. How about you, Yuki?
- Yuki : I like to watch anime on the internet. Because I sometimes watch anime for a long time, I don't have enough time to sleep. I should have some days ( a ) the internet.
- Jim : I think the internet is very useful, but it also has some negative points, right?
- Yuki : I think so, too. Look at the result. It shows that about ninety percent of our classmates use the internet in our houses.
- Jim : Yes, and the graph shows that about thirty percent of students use it over two hours!
- Sota : That's a big surprise to me. I don't think they can have enough time to study. I finish using the internet in thirty minutes. It's my rule.
- Yuki : You are in ( b ) this group in the graph. I use the internet longer than you. Jim, do you have a rule?
- Jim : I can only use the internet in my living room. I usually check the game results of my favorite baseball team in my country. It's useful because I can check them quickly.
- Sota : I always feel that it is difficult to stop using the internet because it shows the next music videos again and again.
- Yuki : Sota, you said you must finish using the internet in thirty minutes. Jim also has his own ( c ). It's important to follow it. I should have a ( c ), too.
- Ms. Lee : OK, everyone, please stop talking. Next class, we'll have a small debate. The topic is ( d ) "When we get information, newspapers are better than the internet."

First, Mei said to me that I should choose one main idea for my speech. I had a variety of ideas. I talked about the *importance of being kind to everyone, learning new things from books, and *setting goals. But she missed my main idea.

Next, Ren told me that my opinion should come first. The reasons and examples come next. We learned this in English class before. I said my opinion at the end, so it was a little difficult for him to understand my opinion clearly.

Then, Shun's advice was that my speech should include sentences which make it attractive to the audience. He said to me, "I could understand your speech, but you can make your speech better by asking questions, or using *catchy sentences. If you do these, the audience will not forget your speech."

Finally, Mr. Ito gave me some advice after my speech. He said, "First, eye contact will help the audience feel that the speaker is talking to them directly. They will agree with the speaker more. Next, using a bigger voice, speaking more slowly, and stopping just before saying your opinion are helpful."

Now, I have finished changing my speech and I'm sure that it is much better because of the advice I received. Some people said they couldn't understand my speech, but after a lot of practice, I hope that ( a ).

【注】 *importance : 重要性      *set goals : 目標を設定する      *catchy : 注意をひくような

- ① 次の英文は結衣がMei, Ren, Shunのいずれかからもらったアドバイスです。誰のアドバイスか、人名を英語で書きなさい。

Advice

- How many opinions do you have? A good speech should have one opinion.

- ② Mei, Ren, Shunのいずれかからもらったアドバイスを受けて、結衣がスピーチ原稿の一部を修正しました。次の修正する前と修正した後の英文を読んで、誰のアドバイスを受けて修正したか、人名を英語で書きなさい。

修正する前

I will talk about the books in a library near my house. There were many books damaged by some of the people who borrowed them from the library.

修正した後

I found a poster that said, "Books are crying!" in front of a library near my house. What does it mean? Can you guess? I entered the library to find the answer. I saw many books in bad condition there. At first, I thought they were just old books. But I was wrong. Some people wrote something on the pages of the books they borrowed.

- ③ 伊藤先生のアドバイスとして適切なものを、次のア～オから2つ選んで記号を書きなさい。

ア Prepare some slides.      イ Keep smiling.      ウ Change how to speak.
エ Look at the audience.      オ Give comments.

- ④ あなたが結衣なら、( a )にどのような英文を書きますか。次の《条件》にしたがって書きなさい。

《条件》 ・主語と動詞を含む英文1文で書くこと。
・5語以上の英語で書くこと。

(2) 次の英文は結衣がアドバイスの一部を取り入れて、修正したスピーチ原稿です。これを読んで、①～④の問いに答えなさい。

Hello, everyone. I found a poster that said, “Books are crying!” in front of a library near my house. What does it mean? Can you guess? I entered the library to find the answer. I saw many books in bad condition there. At first, I thought they were just old books. But I was wrong. Some people wrote something on the pages of the books they borrowed. Other people damaged some pages. Moreover, they didn’t apologize to people working for the library! I got very sad and angry when I saw (A) these books.

One day, I found an article about a volunteer group in the library. The group members *repair the books in bad condition. The article said that they were going to come to the library next Sunday. I met them and they taught me how to repair books. They gave me a book that had damaged pages, but I couldn’t repair it. I damaged the book more and thought people couldn’t read it again. I was very sorry. However, Mr. Suzuki, the leader of the group, said, “It’s OK. We can repair it. Now, you can guess how people feel when they find their favorite books are damaged. If more people feel this way, (B) books won’t cry.” Now, I join this group and repair the damaged books when I have time.

In Mr. Suzuki’s volunteer activity, he always asks this question. “Can you guess how others feel after our actions?” For example, (C) some people put their bags next to them when they sit on the train or the bus. They are comfortable, but people who cannot sit may feel uncomfortable. (D) Other people speak too much. Imagine you are talking with someone who doesn’t stop talking. You cannot say anything that you want to say. You may feel sad because you may not be respected.

Finally, I will ask you Mr. Suzuki’s question. Can you guess how others feel after your actions? As the number of people who answer “yes” to this question increases, I hope more people will understand the situation that the sentence, “Books are crying,” shows. Then, they will be kind to each other, and we can make the world a better place.
